

Job Shadow Reflection

FOR THE STUDENT

Turns a day of watching into something you can actually use. Most students come home saying "it was good" and lose everything they noticed.

When: The same evening as the visit

Where I went

Who I shadowed

Date

The day itself

What they actually spent the most time doing

Something that surprised me

The hardest part of their day

The part I would enjoy

The part I would dread

Rate it

Could I do this for years?

What now

What I want to try next

Who I should talk to next

What I have ruled out, and that is useful too

WORTH KNOWING

- ◆ Ruling something out is a real result. It costs far less now than after two years of a degree.
- ◆ Write it the same day. Tomorrow you will only remember the lunch.
- ◆ Send a thank-you note. It takes four minutes and people remember it for years.
