

Stress and Reset Plan

FOR THE STUDENT

Your own early-warning signs and the things that actually help you — written down while you are fine, because on a bad day nobody can think of them.

When: Fill it in on a calm day, so it is ready on a bad one

How I can tell I am not coping

Body, sleep, mood, behaviour. Be specific and unflattering.

What reliably helps me

Takes 5 minutes

Takes an hour

Takes a whole day

A person I can text without explaining myself

What makes it worse

Everyone has two or three. Write them down and you will catch yourself doing them.

My people and numbers

| Who | How to reach them | For what |
|-----|-------------------|----------|
|     |                   |          |
|     |                   |          |

Crisis, any hour, free: call or text 988 (US). Text HOME to 741741 for the Crisis Text Line. Immediate danger: 911. Your college counselling centre and campus security numbers belong on this sheet too — add them the first week.

WORTH KNOWING

- ◆ Write this on a good day. That is the whole point of it.
- ◆ Keep a photo of it in your phone as well as the paper copy.
- ◆ Telling one person early is the thing that most reliably works.
